What happened?

HEAT WAVES

Severe heat waves have caused drought and wildfires in Northern Ontario and Western provinces that resulted in devastating feed shortages for livestock producers. Without enough feed to go around, farms face very little choice but to disperse flocks and herds, leading to the decimation of farming communities and the national flock.

Action is needed to help those in need. Our Facebook page is the start of connecting farms in need with those who want to help.

HOW TO GIVE OR GET HELP

Join our Facebook Group HayWestHelp to be in contact with those who need assistance and those who can provide it.

Tell us what resources you need or have to spare in our conversations.

Tell us how else you would like to help, whether it be through donations of time, equipment, resources to harvest, and wrap forage that was not otherwise destined for livestock feed.

If you are in need of help, use #INeedHelp in your posts so those who can help can find you. If you can provide help, use #ICanHelp in your posts so those in need can find you.

Sheep producers can contact the Saskatchewan Sheep Development Board at gordsheepdb@sasktel.net to request assistance as well.
